GLADIOLUS

THE BEAUTIFUL

If, perchance, you have never grown Gladiolus, a world of pleasant surprise awaits you this summer when your "glads" begin to bloom and unfold their hidden treasures.

Those of you who are already "Glad Fans" will be interested from the moment you put your bulbs in the brown earth; you will patiently care for your plants and wait for the glorious blooms, knowing that you will not be disappointed; always there will be new forms, new colors, new combinations, unexpected arrangement of markings, in the varieties that will bloom in your garden for the first time, while the older varieties, those that you have known for several seasons, will be looking at you like old friends with an ever new beauty, bravely competing for your favors with your new acquisitions.

The Gladiolus are so regal in their beauty that they grace the costliest gardens, and so democratic in their demands that the novice cannot fail to reap a wealth of flowers from his planting.

As a garden flower the Gladiolus are unsurpassed; they are superb for a garden border, for their long spikes are dressed in glorious colors; in groups among the shrubbery, where there is plenty of sunshine they make a wonderful picture.

A group should be of six or more of one variety or of one color group, and is within the means of even those who have only a limited space for their culture.

Fine as they are for the garden, Gladiolus are in all their glory as cut flowers. The purposes for which they can be used are endless; from the tall large vase or basket for the living room, to the dainty corsage bouquet of one single bloom, bowl for the dining room table or single spike for the slender vase; the florists use them in profusion for bridal bouquets and the sick enjoy them all the more because they have no cloying perfume.

Every garden should have, at least, a few of these; they are easy to grow and give more pleasure for the amount of work involved than any other flower.

FOREWORD

My stock is first class in every respect, and I will make glad customers with every order, which will be accompanied with full directions for its care.

All bulbs will be packed frost-proof and delivered free in the U. S. providing the order amounts to $1.00 or more; to foreign countries add five per cent and give number of permit.

I use every precaution to have my stock true to name and will replace free, any of which prove otherwise.

All orders will be filled in rotation, subject to previous sales, and no substitutions made without the consent of the purchaser. In case of inability from any cause to fill orders, the purchaser's money will be returned.

Parties wanting large orders, planting stock or bulblets, should write for just what they want, as a liberal discount will be given on such orders.

Prices herein given are for blooming size bulbs, usually one and one fourth inches or more in diameter. Six bulbs of one variety at dozen rate. One hundred at seven times dozen price.

My stock in some varieties is limited, so it is important that you get your order in early to avoid disappointment, and be sure to write your name and address plainly.

TERMS:—Cash with order. Please remit by bank draft, post office order or certified check. Twenty-five per cent will hold orders until spring. For orders less than one dollar, add fifteen cents postage and packing. Unused U. S. two cent stamps will be acceptable up to one dollar.

VIRGINIA LOU (Kundred) (1926. 80 days, Rating 92)—Midseason. A giant Grandiflora Primulinus. A widely open flower of large size. Color, rich, old-rose pink, throat of daintiest, creamy-yellow with slight pink pencillings deep in throat. An extra grand and beautiful cut flower variety. Each, 20c; Doz., $2.00.

WILBRINK. A sport of Halley with all the good points of that favorite old variety. The color alone is changed and become a delicate creamy pink. A fine florist variety. Each, 6c; Doz., 60c.

4 SISTERS MIXTURE. A mixed lot of bulbs containing many of our best named varieties, which having accidentally dropped from the trays to the floor, are put into this lot. The bulbs of this mixture will give just as good blooms as tho they were properly labeled. For those who do not care for the named varieties, we offer these for their consideration at $3.00 per hundred.

MONTBRETIAS. These are very pretty bright-colored summer flowering bulbs. Somewhat like a very small-flowered gladiolus. The slender wiry stems grow about two feet high or higher, and have the flowers arranged about one-third the length. Very artistic and beautiful. They should be planted in clumps for best effect. In mild climates they can be left in the ground two or three years with a winter cover. Mixed orange and red, 50c per dozen; $3.50 per hundred. Better try at least one dozen.
